DUST IN THE BOOTH COSTS YOU TWICE

Every dust nib in a fresh finish means polishing or repainting. And every deep-clean of contaminated booth walls means hours of downtime with the booth earning nothing.

01 · REWORK ON THE PANEL

Overspray and dust that settle on walls get stirred back into the airflow — and land in the next wet coat. Denibbing, polishing and repaints follow.

02 · DOWNTIME ON THE WALLS

Scraping, washing or re-coating booth walls takes the booth out of production for hours — the most expensive square meters in the shop, idle.

THE FIX

Line every surface once a year. Capture the dust at the wall. Peel a layer in seconds when it's full — no washing, no re-coating, no downtime.

Tacky, statically charged surface — a magnet for airborne dust

LINE IT. SPRAY FOR MONTHS. PEEL IN SECONDS.

1
LINE THE BOOTH

Applied by hand straight from the patented dispenser box — cutting bar and applicator included. Tape-free seams. 50% faster install.

2
LAYERS CAPTURE DUST

Each wall layer is tacky and electrostatically charged — dual capture that holds airborne dust and overspray at the wall, out of your paintwork.

3
PEEL & REVEAL

A layer lasts ~250 spray cycles or ~3 months. Peel in seconds to reveal a fresh charged surface. No residue, no downtime.

5+1 LAYER CONSTRUCTION

- PROTECTIVE OUTER SHEET — non-stick, transparent
- LAYER 5 — numbered
- LAYER 4
- LAYER 3
- LAYER 2
- LAYER 1 — adhesive on wall side only

Numbered layer indicators + embedded measuring tape: always know how many layers and meters remain.
